

CIVITAS MAXIMA

Independent Legal Representation of Victims of War Crimes and Crimes against Humanity

GJRP

Global Justice and Research Project

Liberia: 76 Groups Seek Justice For War Crimes

Submission to UN Human Rights Committee Focuses on Accountability

Geneva, July 5, 2018

The Liberian government should undertake fair and credible prosecutions of international crimes committed during its two civil wars, 76 Liberian, African, and international nongovernmental organizations said in a submission to the United Nations Human Rights Committee released today. The submission was made ahead of Liberia's appearance before the committee, which monitors implementation of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights by its states parties, scheduled for July 9-10, 2018 in Geneva.

"Since the war ended in 2003, the Liberian government has skirted the issue of criminal accountability for war crimes," said Hassan Bility, executive director of the Monrovia-based Global Justice and Research Project. "Not one person has been prosecuted for past violations."

Liberians suffered tremendously over the course of Liberia's two armed conflicts spanning more than 14 years. Abuses included summary executions, large-scale massacres, rape and other forms of sexual violence, mutilation and torture, and widespread forced conscription and use of child combatants.

Two well-attended marches were recently held in Monrovia in support of a war crimes court, and prominent Liberians are calling for justice, including the Nobel Peace laureate Leymah Gbowee, and leaders in the Liberian Council of Churches.

"People in Liberia are taking to the streets and insisting their leaders take steps to ensure justice for past crimes," said Nushin Sarkarati, senior staff attorney at the Center for Justice and Accountability. "The victims and families deserve to see perpetrators held to account."

Although the Truth and Reconciliation Commission for Liberia in 2009 recommended a war crimes court to investigate and try people responsible for grave violations of international law, Liberia has never moved ahead with this recommendation. The few cases addressing civil war-era atrocities have occurred outside Liberia, notably in Europe and the United States.

“With a new government elected on a platform of ending corruption and upholding the rule of law in the nation, our organizations call on Liberia to meet its international obligations to prosecute serious crimes and provide justice to victims of the civil wars,” said Adama Dempster, secretary general of the Civil Society Human Rights Advocacy Platform of Liberia.

The submission presented by the 76 groups identifies steps to be taken without delay by the Liberian government to help ensure accountability for serious crimes in Liberia, to be considered by the Human Rights Committee. It also makes recommendations for additions and changes to the commission’s proposed court to enable fair and credible trials.

“The Liberian government should swiftly establish a committee to develop a roadmap for justice for grave crimes,” said Elise Keppler, associate international justice director at Human Rights Watch. “Liberia should also support efforts by third countries to bring universal jurisdiction cases for civil war-era crimes.”

For more information on civil society efforts to justice for Liberia, see:

<http://coalitionforjusticeinliberia.org/admin.html>

<https://cja.org/10394-2/> <https://www.civitas-maxima.org/en/campaigns/liberian-quest-for-justice-campaign> <https://www.hrw.org/news/2009/12/10/justice-liberia>

For more information, please contact:

In Berkeley, for Human Rights Center, Andrea Lampros (English): +1-510-847-4469

In Dakar, for Amnesty International, Sabrina Mahtani (English): +221-777-353-119 or +232-76-983-150 or sabrina.mahtani@amnesty.org

In Geneva, for Civil Society Human Rights Advocacy Platform of Liberia Adama Dempster (English): +231-7771-00101

In Geneva, for Civitas Maxima, Lisa Rudi or Alain Werner (English, French): lisa.rudi@civitas-maxima.org or +41223461243

In Geneva, for Human Rights Watch, Elise Keppler (English, French): +1-917-687-8576 (mobile); or kepplee@hrw.org.

In Minneapolis, for The Advocates for Human Rights, Jennifer Prestholdt (English): +1-612- 709-2794

In Monrovia, for Global Research and Justice Project, Hassan Bility (English): +231-77-017- 9752

In Monrovia, for Coalition for Justice in Liberia, Fatima Esi Kamara (English): +231-7775-390-0011

In Monrovia, for Fubbi Foundation for Development and Sustainability, Inc., Fubbi Henries (English): +231-77-631-1617

In San Francisco, for Center for Justice and Accountability, Dietlind Lerner (English): +1-310-699-8775 or dlerner@cja.org

About the GJRP

The Global Justice and Research Project (GJRP) is a Liberia-based non-profit, non-governmental organization that documents war crimes and, where possible, seeks justice for victims of these crimes, with the full consent of the victims.

For more information and media inquiries go to www.globaljustice-research.org or contact the GJRP director by phone: 00231777250914.

About Civitas Maxima

Civitas Maxima (CM), based in Geneva, ensures the coordination of a network of international lawyers and investigators who work for the interests of those who have been victims of international crimes, particularly war crimes and crimes against humanity.

For more information and media inquiries, go to www.civitas-maxima.org or contact us via email: info@civitas-maxima.org or by phone: 0041223461243.

Liberian Quest for Justice & Civitas Maxima

Civitas Maxima

Civitas Maxima